Pinkerton Agency Plaintiff in Action Against Mrs. Barclay, Famous in "Incubator Baby Case."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Buffalo, N. Y., April 3.—An echo of the famous "Incubator Baby" case which attracted wide attention several years ago was heard in court here today when the case of the Pinkerton detective agency against Mrs. Stella Barclay came up for trial. The Pinkertons are suing Mrs. Barclay for balance alleged to be due on their bill for services rendered in recovering the baby after it had been kidnapped by its mother. Mrs. Barclay is the foster mother of the baby, the foster world's fair at St. Louis, where the baby was on exhibition in an incubator. Mrs. Barclay, the child's mother, signed away her rights to the child, believing it was another baby, on exhibition at the same time. One of the babies died and she was told it was her own. Afterward she became convinced that the living child was her own, and through a court order in Illinois got possession of the baby. Then followed a long legal battle that extended to the courts of Kansas. Through the aid of the Pinkertons Mrs. Barclay located the baby in Kansas City and is alleged to have gone there and kidnapped the infant, as a result of which she and one of the detectives were indicted. Later the baby's own mother recovered possession of her child, which she now has.

Kain, aged 28, he was fishing, illegally, in Lake Monona at 3:30 o'clock Sunday morning. To the fact that Seymour's foot was caught in the net as he went down the police owe the early recovery of the body. Then all day Sunday the search for Kain's body was continued, with Coroner M. W. Lynch, an uncle of Kain, leading in the search. The men started out at 1:30 a. m. to use the nets, a practice under the law's ban. About 3:30 men on the railroad bridge crossing the lake heard the cries for help and one man's injunction to the other to follow him by swimming ashore. Then the night was still. The police were notified. Seymour's body was brought up with the net at 7:15 a. m. Kain was a freeman and Seymour a switchman for the St. Paul road and lived with relatives in Madison. MANUFACTURERS NOT TO SET THE PRICES

LEGISLATURE TO ADJOURN DAILY

MEMBERS WILL TAKE THE ENTIRE WEEK.

WORK IS MUCH DELAYED

Second Vacation in Eleven Weeks For the "Hard Working" Legislators.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 3.—For the second time in eleven weeks, the Wisconsin legislature took a "vacation," this time, in order to give the members a chance to take part in local elections on Tuesday. Many of the solemn political fences that need attention, or will have to put in their best efforts for their friends who are in the throes of a municipal campaign.

Under a joint resolution adopted last week, both houses are scheduled to meet again on Wednesday evening, but the senate frankly intends to do nothing during this week. Adjournment will be taken from day to day beginning Wednesday night and not until the following week will the upper house renew its labors. In the assembly, however, Speaker Ingram hopes to be able to gather together a fair majority of the 100 members and keep things moving.

The senate, however, could "jog off" for two weeks and still be able to catch up with the lower house. In one week the senate has completely disposed of three highly important measures—the workmen's compensation, good roads and woman suffrage bills—besides a large number of minor matters. All these matters have been turned over to the assembly, which is literally swamped with its own bills. During the past two weeks several dozen assembly bills have been referred to committees because of the indisposition of the house to act on them. In some cases this has been because of a lack of knowledge of the purpose of the measure and in others because it was the only way to prevent snap judgment by the majority.

The latter has been especially true of bills bearing on the game laws, which are in the majority. The fish and game committee has reported out several batches of these measures, most of them for killing, but the interests of individual members has caused pressure to send them back in the hope that something might be saved from the wreck. Speaker Ingram, in view of this condition involving fish and game bills, has suggested that a day's session be given over entirely to such bills, including a number which have come over from the senate, in order that this sort of legislation may be cleared up, so far as possible, at one fell swoop. This suggestion doubtless will be followed when the assembly gets together again, by the house in a resolution providing for a special order day.

The failure of the assembly to heed Speaker Ingram's advice that important bills be saved by committees for one grand killing into in the session, when most of the rural members especially desire to get home, is the cause of the present state of affairs. It was his desire that the matters of great moment be taken up first, but his wish has been disregarded until the last week, when two committees got busy and reported out bills called for in the republican platform. These are the second choice ("Mary Ann"), and corrupt practices bills, and the proposed constitutional amendment for the initiative and referendum. The two latter, of course, required several conferences with powers that be in the administration, but a late start was had in their consideration. From now on it is expected that the assembly leaders will devote months of working more expeditiously.

In connection with the expediting of business, few members are now willing to believe that the final adjournment can be had much before June 1, which will make the session four and one-half months long. Some of the optimistic ones think the decks can be cleared by the middle of May.

The resignation of former Gov. W. D. Hoard from the board of university regents leaves but one member who is said to be somewhat out of sympathy with the new regime caused by the appointments by Gov. McGovern which Mr. Hoard so bitterly has condemned. He is G. D. Jones of Wausau, but there has been no hint of any intention on his part to follow in the footsteps of Ex-Gov. Hoard and Magnus Svenson of Madison. As a successor to Hoard, it is suggested that the governor probably will select a man from the southern or south-western part of the state, as the Madison district already has its representative in T. E. Bellinger, and Milwaukee has all the representation it can claim by reason of the appointment of Dr. Gilbert E. Swenson in Swenson's place. Two names discussed for the Hoard vacancy are those of A. M. Valentino of Janesville and Fred Kull of Lake Geneva, both enthusiastic La Follette adherents. Northern Wisconsin, however, probably will urge strongly for the appointment of a member-at-large from that section, owing to the great size of the congressional districts from which are chosen the district representatives.

The coming week will witness the real beginning of the fight to wipe out the civil service system in this state, with Attorney General Hancock defending Secretary of State Fear against the numerous writ secured by Civil Service Commissioner C. E. Duell. The arguments will be heard by the supreme court on Friday, and with the highest court taking original jurisdiction, an early settlement of the difficulty is anticipated. Pending a decision in this case, most of the bills relating to the civil service pending in both houses will be held up by the committee. However, the senate state affairs committee already have reported for killing Senator Owen's bill abolishing the present commission and creating a new salaried board of five members.

Janesville high school five won third place in the basketball tournament at Appleton. After the terrific game with Appleton Friday night Superior was unable to stand the fast pace set by Janesville, Korst alone scoring more points than the entire Superior team. Superior started with a spark, but the fouls of the Bradley brothers, which Korst turned into points, kept Janesville in the lead. The score:

JANESVILLE:	G.	F.	T.	P.
Korst, R.	7	9	5	6
Falzer, R.	1	0	2	0

The tournament was by far the best ever held here. The games were all clean and lightning fast. That good basketball is played all over the state was shown by the fact that one team from each district got into the semifinals and no team was able to score over thirty-six points in any one game, nor to win by over ten points.

THE ALL-STATE TEAM.
In picking the All-State team, Coach Catlin and Referee Schroeder took everything into consideration. Taylor, the smallest player in the tournament, was easily the best forward. The Appleton midget was all over the floor, fast, strong and accurate in his passes. Holman the big Superior forward, is a great mule for Taylor. Although not as fast in floor work, he was a star in basket shooting, scoring from all parts of the floor. On account of his experience and general ability, he is made captain of the team.
"Tubby" Koeler, the big La Crosse center, is given that position over Hemming of Janesville, his only rival, on account of his endurance. A good jumper and a floor walker, he is also a star basket shooter.
Harry of Madison, and Wittuhn of Appleton, were in a class by themselves at guards, although Aubin of Superior, Edler of Janesville, and Doyle of Fond du Lac, were also stars.

the opening of the season, attending to the making out of the diamond and other duties. One of the Wisconsin-Illinois league games may be secured for the first game.

Manager Walter Breen Making Arrangements for Getting Together a City Team.
Spring practice for the opening of the baseball season in this city was delayed somewhat by the storm yesterday. It was planned to get together a number of the local players, who are candidates for positions on the city team, for a try-out. The opening game will probably be played within a month.
Walter Breen, who is organizing the team, has several good players on the string ready to join the team and a fast, representative nine for Janesville is in prospect. Catcher Will Crotan of Walworth was here today to discuss matters with Mr. Breen and signed up for the season. Crotan has played the backstop position in several games in this city. He is a left-handed batter and is there with the stick. His work behind the bat is very creditable and he has a good throwing arm.
F. Smith of Kenosha, with the Lake Shore league last season, and Fack of Beloit are possible members of the team as pitchers. Smith has played with Breen and delivers the goods. Fack is one of the stars of the Beloit nine. Sleep of Beloit, leader in the batting last year, and two men from the university, will probably fill the outfield. Markle of Harvard will probably cover the third sack. Local men in the line-up will be: Breen at first, Miller at second; Hill, shortstop, and Sullivan, outfielder.
Breen, who has been working in the city during the winter, will complete his labors tomorrow and will commence preparations Wednesday for

LAUDED MEMBERS OF HIGH SCHOOL TEAM

Basketball Players Highly Praised for Their Work at the State Tournament Last Week.

This morning Prof. Vlymen, a member of the faculty, spoke to the students of the local high school. His theme was one of praise to the Jansville high school. He described the manner in which the basketball team won third place in the state tournament. The game which they put up against Fond du Lac, he said, would go down in the pages of tournament history and the Jansville high school would always be spoken of with due honor for the team had made a name for their school.

The glory and honor, he said, must not all go to the team, but some to the students who by their earnest cheers and send-off had inspired a feeling of "do or die" for the honor of the old J. H. S. Also the patient, persistent and earnest work of Coach Knudson, who moulded and trained this team, sheds glory on the name and standing of the school.

Coach Knudson briefly thanked the students for the earnest support they had given the team. He said that it was through this support that he could appeal to the team in time of a crisis.

Inter-Society Game.

Tonight at the close of school the Forum and Risk Lyceum will clash in the last game of this season. The game will be played in the local high school auditorium and a spirited contest is assured. Although the Forum have won six of the eight games already played the two societies are tied on the total number of points made—103 each.

Those inter-society games have been held not only for society interest, but also to train material for next year's team.

BUSY SESSION FOR CITY DADS TONIGHT

Considerable Business to be Disposed of at Regular Meeting of the Common Council.

Prospects are for a busy session at the meeting of the common council this evening, as there are a number of important matters to be disposed of. Chief among these is the disposal of the bid of the Central States Bridge Company of Chicago for the bridge. With the new turn in affairs regarding the validity of the bonds issued for the construction of this bridge and the one over the river at Racine street, the council's action will be watched with interest. Some step will probably be taken to have matters with regard to the bonds straightened out also.

Highway matters to be considered are: the resolution to be introduced for the building of crosswalks in the First Ward and the plans by the City Engineer for the Wall street storm extension from Race street to Rock River. The report of City Engineer Kereh on the platting of Ashland addition to the City of Jansville will be presented.

Kraus & Hilde, proprietors of the "Farmers' Road" on North Franklin street have petitioned the city fathers to be allowed to conduct monthly combination sales at their place of business. Perry E. Clark has asked to be allowed to transfer the license for his saloon at 120 East Milwaukee street, to James Black and W. A. Brown.

Headles there will be the reports of the board of education, municipal court and chief of police for the month of February.

MASTER PAINTERS GIVE THEIR SIDE

Official Statement From the Proprietors of the Local Shops Where Labor Difficulties Exist.

The article in the Jansville Daily Recorder of Sunday morning in regard to the proposed strike of the painters, decorators and paperhangers is erroneous and is unfair to the master painters of this city.

Following are the propositions presented to the master painters:

Articles of agreement between the employing painters of Jansville, Wisconsin and Local Union 792 of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators, and Paperhangers of America, from April 1st, 1911 to April 1st, 1912, and from April 1st, 1912, to April 1st, 1913.

We, the undersigned employers, the painters of Jansville, make the following agreement with Local Union No. 792 of the Brotherhood of P. D. & P. of A. of Jansville, Wisconsin, from April 1st, 1911 to April 1st, 1912, and from April 1st, 1912, to April 1st, 1913.

Sec. 1. That the minimum wage scale shall be 32½ cents per hour from April 1st, 1911 to April 1st, 1912, and 35 cents per hour after April 1st, 1912 to April 1st, 1913, with closed shops.

Sec. 2. That nine (9) hours shall constitute a day's work for all days.

Sec. 3. That all overtime shall be time and one-half. Sundays and legal holidays shall be double time. No work on Labor Day and Saturday afternoons off for the months of July and August.

Sec. 4. That one apprentice not over twenty-one (21) years of age shall be allowed for each shop employing three (3) to ten (10) men; two (2) apprentices for ten (10) to fifteen (15) men; three (3) apprentices from fifteen (15) to twenty (20) men; over twenty (20) men four (4) apprentices.

Sec. 5. That master painters shall pay car fare both ways and board bill for workmen on all out of town work.

Sec. 6. That union men shall be employed at all times, but when necessity compels master painters to employ non-union men, said non-union men shall sign application and deposit same with initiation fee or its equivalent with the steward of the shop before going to work.

Sec. 7. That no union man shall contract while employed, but any member contracting shall get 42½ cents per hour from April 1st, 1911, to April 1st, 1913.

Sec. 8. Any contractor signing this scale shall not sub-contract to a non-union contractor.

Sec. 9. That said scale takes effect April 1st, 1911 and continues in force to April 1st, 1913, a period of two (2) years.

Sec. 10. Sign writers shall receive fifty cents (50c) per hour sign writing.

Of these propositions all were accepted by the master painters, except Sections 1 and 6 to 10 inclusive. The master painters have not refused arbitration in this matter, but they do not feel that they should accede to the propositions above excepted. The master painters feel that the article in the Recorder is not fair to them, and cause this article to be published in order that the public may have a better understanding of the situation.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

Gazette: I wish to note a few things about the improvement in the village of Hanover since the town went "dry." We had no coal yards—now we have two and doing a big business. We had no cement houses; now we have two and selling lots of cement. We had no cement mixing machinery; now we have three or four which will be used this summer.

We did have a "blind pig" after the town went "dry," but it ran away to Alton, and we have no "blind pig" now. Then we had no one that bought hay; now we have a company that buys hundreds of tons to ship.

Our creamery only got what cream the farmers nearby brought in. Now they get all that two teams can bring in from a distance of fifteen to twenty miles. They never made half as much butter as now.

We did not then have but two stores; now we have three. One is the largest store there is in the country, perhaps in the state.

Then we did not have any brass band. Now we have one that would do honor to a city and they have a hall to meet in that will be nice when they get it finished.

That time will tell me to tell of all the improvements in Hanover since the town went dry. "A FARMER."

His Awkward Blunder. "Cohan's ill in bed, I hear." "Yes, he smoked a cigar from the wrong pocket."—London Opinion.

If You Pay Cash For Your Club Piano, Its Pro-Rata Value Will Be Refunded To Your Family In Cash In Event Of Your Death.

Suppose a club member pays CASH—or NEARLY ALL CASH—he does not lose the full benefits of the Life Insurance feature.

The life insurance feature extends over a period of 218 weeks—the life of the club.

If a club member pays up in a shorter time, his life insurance goes on just the same for 218 weeks.

Thus, if he were to pay SPOT CASH he would be entitled to the protection of the life insurance feature for 218 weeks.

Now suppose he were to die at the end of one year, or 52 weeks. He would therefore have paid for his piano 166 weeks in advance of the time he was entitled to and would then be entitled to get back 166 times 1 dollar and 25 cents, or 207 dollars and 50 cents.

We would, therefore, immediately upon the proof of his death, send our check, payable to his family, for 207 dollars and 50 cents. And this is not all.

By this thrifty club member having paid in advance, he got a rebate of 15 cents a week for each and every week he thus paid in advance.

For these 166 weeks, he therefore SAVED 166 times 15 cents, which amounted to 24 dollars and 90 cents.

Thus we would be sending our check to his family in event of his death for 207 dollars and 50 cents for what cost him only 182 dollars and 60 cents—or—24 dollars and 90 cents MORE IN COLD CASH than he paid.

For the convenience of people who cannot come in during the day the store will be open every evening until 10 o'clock.

IT MUST HAVE HURT.
Governor Hoard's resignation and letter accompanying it, brought forth a storm of denial from Governor McGovern and President Van Hise of the university. Now the governor has hit the bullseye again in his answer to their answers to his original letter.

Former Governor W. D. Hoard from his home in Fort Atkinson sends to the press of reply to Governor McGovern's comments on his letter of resignation as a member of the board of regents. Governor Hoard in substance says that Governor McGovern evades the real point of the controversy as to politics in the management of the state university. He reiterates and amplifies his charge that the real interests of the university are being subordinated to partisan La Follette politics, says that most efficient regents were dropped because they were not such partisans, and expresses that had they not been partisans of La Follette the present members of the executive committee, new men would not have been appointed.

Incidentally, he says that Gov. McGovern has shown himself a pronounced partisan, by his failure, in public utterances, message or platform, to say a kindly word for his predecessor, Governor Davidson, "a republican of longer and better service to the state." Ex-Governor Hoard's letter is as follows:

"I have read what Governor McGovern has to say in the afternoon papers of Friday relative to my resignation from the board of regents. He claims that the language used was so offensive that he was forced to notice it. Very likely, yet that language contained nothing that should have offended him had he not been guilty of what it charges, to-wit: An effort and purpose through certain appointments and appointments to so construct the board of regents as to make it a partisan board in favor of La Follette and his faction of the republican party."

THE STAR CHAMBER.
Public sentiment is aroused over the question of the "Star Chamber Sessions" of the council. A majority of the afternoon and candidates for the office have declared themselves against such practices. They are outspoken in their opinion that such sessions are not necessary. It is the general belief that the members of the council, elected by the people to handle their business for them, should not be afraid to stand in the open and let the public know what they are doing. The sessions behind closed doors may be called "committee meetings of the whole," "star chamber sessions," or by any name, and still mean the same thing. "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

If there is anything the aldermen feel they ought to hide—anything they are ashamed of—why let them go into some back room somewhere and hold their sessions. If, however, they believe in the square deal for all, fear and favor to none, they should hold their sessions in the council chamber and their committee meetings at some other time. Let everything be open and above board and nothing hidden. The majority of the next council have stated they are opposed to it and some of the candidates who favor its continuance may find themselves counted down and out tomorrow night.

Tomorrow is election day. The state law says that the saloons must be closed. Chief Appleby will, as usual, issue a formal announcement to this effect and then when he does his duty as an officer of the law to see that it is complied with, will be threatened "with a brick bounded off his head," if he interferes with certain "privileged" liquor men.

By tomorrow night everyone will know who is to be the next mayor and who will be aldermen in the second and first wards. To make sure that you are really interested go to the polls and vote.

Remember tomorrow that you are a citizen and a voter and go to the polls and vote for the men you consider best qualified for the office they seek.

The Welfare of the City Demands Business Management
Having been repeatedly importuned by a great many voters of the First Ward to outline my position in regard to the action I would take if elected Alderman of the First Ward, herewith the following statement:
If the electors of the First Ward choose to honor me with their confidence and elect me to this office, I will agree to assist the senior alderman in furthering the policies he so ably initiated several years ago, particularly relative to street and ward improvements, and to do so in the same economical and business like spirit pursued heretofore.
I further agree to use the same care and ability in administering the business affairs of the ward and city that I would use in furthering and advancing my own private interests.

Mr. Editor: Will you allot me a small place in your valuable paper? I see so much about politics and the different candidates, but there is scarcely anything said about the prohibition party. Is that a cause we as citizens ought not to pay any attention to? Who insist that the most important question at issue is the supremacy of the law and the protection of the people in their morals and in their health. Who has pledged to us their ability to put down evil, especially intemperance, which is a nursery for crime and vice, and destroying the character of hundreds of our young men and also detrimental to the progression of our city. If prohibition is in the right cause, let us by our vote tomorrow show that we are willing to help it. Having the candidacy as Alderman for the Third ward pressed upon me, if elected will do what I can for its interest, and also for the city.

Indian Dead Work Artistic.

To the poor Indian, is preying by a movement started by Mrs. James E. Pichot, mother of Gifford Pichot, former United States forester. She advises American women to use bags, caps and belts made of silk, beads and feathers. The American Indians excel in this work. Mrs. Pichot has been collecting needle and bead work of the redskins for the department of the National museum, and she has studied much about the textile arts of the Indians. She says American women could as easily patronize the home industries as to rush to Europe for bead and feather work not so artistic. —New York Times.

NOT DECIDED AS TO BRIDGE BONDS

LAWYERS UNCERTAIN AS TO THE VALIDITY OF PRESENT ISSUE.

STILL MUCH DOUBT EXISTS

May Change Present Plans Entirely.—
Now Consider Project of Reducing Cost.

"To be or not to be,
That is the question?"

Is Jansville to have the two bridges that the majority of the people expressed their desire for both at the special election last September, and again at the regular election in November, or has some one blundered, just as they did when the "Six hundred rods to their death at Dulaklava".

Evidently there is a mix up somewhere. It is certain that the lawyers who have examined the city charter and the state laws are of diverse opinions. Anyway the bonds have not yet been issued and there is some talk of rewording matters, remodeling the wording, printing off a few thousand dollars, issuing the Racine street bonds next year and the Fourth Avenue bonds this year and in all a general confusion as to what really has happened.

The bonds are printed, are ready for issue and now comes the question, was the legal requirement of the law complied with to properly protect the innocent purchasers of the bonds at issue? Did the city or has the city, the right to issue bonds in excess of $20,000 for any one year. Opinions differ. One prominent attorney who has studied the matter submitted to the following statement being made on the subject which is interesting.

"At the primary election on Sept. 13th last the question submitted to the voters was 'Shall bonds in the sum of $20,000 for the construction of two bridges across Rock River, one at Fourth Avenue and one at Racine street be issued?' The city attorney being of the opinion that a vote should be had on each bridge separately it was decided to re-submit the proposition to the voters and this was done at the regular fall election at which time the question was for the raising of a special tax to construct these bridges, $25,000 for the Fourth Avenue bridge and $17,000 for the one at Racine street. At both elections the people voted overwhelmingly in favor of both bridges.

"The charter provision governing the construction of bridges is Sec. 8, of Chapter 1. The feature of this section is material to this inquiry. That plain meaning of this section is that for bridge purposes this city cannot issue bonds in excess of $20,000 in any one year, nor can it levy a special tax in excess of that amount. A bond issue or tax levy in excess of that amount in any one year must if necessary be void, because it cannot be said that in issue or levy of not to exceed $20,000 for one bridge would have carried except as it be joined with an issue or levy for the second. The question would be the same had the city voted to build 10 bridges at a cost of $20,000 each. In that event which bridge would be held to be authorized? The section is plain and not open to construction.

"See, §§ 8, R. S. provides: 'No bonds shall in any case be issued by any town, village or city until the proposal for their issue for the special purpose thereof shall have been submitted to the people of such municipality and adopted by a majority voting thereon.' This seems to apply to the last election.

It has also been suggested that instead of asking if the people wanted the bridges the following question had been submitted at the special elections all would have been well.

Shall the city of Jansville construct a bridge across Rock River at Fourth Avenue and levy a special tax therefor or issue bonds for the same not exceeding $20,000 in the year 1911.

Shall the city of Jansville construct a bridge across Racine street and levy a special tax therefor or issue bonds not exceeding twenty thousand dollars in the year 1912.

This would have complied strictly to the letter of the law as laid down in the special charter issued by the state to the city of Jansville. It would have met all requirements and also eliminated any doubt as to the validity of the bond issue so voted.

Now it is suggested that to get around all difficulties the appropriation for the Fourth Avenue bridge be cut down to $20,000, bonds issued for that amount, the year and that next year bonds for $25,000 be issued for the bridge across Racine street. That this will lead to another complication is certain and meanwhile the city is without the proposed Racine street bridge and the Fourth Avenue one is not fit for travel.

High Tribute Paid to Mason & Hamlin Piano by Arnoldo Conti, Musical Director of the Boston Opera Co.

Another high tribute to the musical qualities of the Mason & Hamlin piano comes from the pen of Arnoldo Conti, musical director of the Boston Opera Co., who has purchased a Mason & Hamlin piano for his own use. Mr. Conti says in a letter to the Mason & Hamlin Co.:

"Let me thank you for your reply to my letter of March 9, 1911, regarding the purchase of a Mason & Hamlin baby grand for my home in Italy. I will buy the piano, style A. No. 1877, and am happy at the thought of owning it, for no other piano so satisfies me. I feel particularly happy at the thought of taking this masterpiece from America, my present home, to Italy, my former home and the home, as you know, of another masterpiece, the Stradivari violin. I congratulate you on producing what I believe to be the finest piano the world has yet known. He who cares for the best must feel a deep debt of gratitude to you."

The Mason & Hamlin piano may be had only from the Wisconsin Music Co.

Thealka of Kentucky.
The fact that recently the postoffice department changed the name of the Muddy Branch, Ky., postoffice to that of Thealka calls to mind the fact that "Thealka" was originated by L. Price, a local painter, through a misunderstanding of orders. Several years ago the late Captain Green Meek built a new steamboat for the Big Handy trade. Mr. Price did the painting and lettering on the boat. After completing the painting Price asked Captain Meek what he meant to name the boat, and he replied "The Alka." Price painted "The" on the boat, and forgetting to leave any space proceeded with the balance of the name, making it "Thealka." Captain Meek was surprised to see the combination Price had made, and finally concluded that the name was not a bad one and let it remain. Since then babies, mines and postoffices have been named Thealka.—Exchange.

Dog's Long Lineage.

It is impossible to say when dogs were first domesticated, but some of the earlier traces are found on Egyptian monuments, with figures of dogs, somewhat of the greyhound type, which date back to at least 3500 B. C. Even in those remote days the dog was highly esteemed. We read that Ulysses, 3,000 years ago, was recognized by his dog Argus after his swineherd had failed to do so. Plutarch speaks of Alcibiades, who cut off the tail of his dog, and Myron, the sculptor, immortalized the animal by chiseling his image in marble. The Romans valued their dogs, and kept them for the chase and also as pets. Alexander the Great owned a veteran hound to tackle a lion.

Strange.

Mr. Marrynew (a little crossly)—This soup, Agnes, doesn't seem to taste much like turtle. Mrs. Marrynew—I don't see why, John, I let the turtle swim around in the kettle until the water was nearly hot enough to scald the poor little thing!—Pack.

SCHUMANN-HEINK TO APPEAR HERE SOON

World's Greatest Contralto Will Sing at Myers Theatre Tuesday Evening, April 25.

The greatest musical event in the history of Janesville will be the appearance of Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, the world's greatest contralto, at Myers theatre, Tuesday evening, April 25, under the direction of Clara Bowen Shepard, Milwaukee's well known impresario. Mrs. Shepard promotes all the fine musical events in Milwaukee, having recently managed a season of grand opera there by the Chicago Grand Opera company. Many of the world famed artists have appeared at the University of Wisconsin under Mrs. Shepard's direction and the following cities through Mrs. Shepard's efforts have heard Mme. Schumann-Heink: Milwaukee, Sheboygan, Eau Claire, La Crosse, Green Bay, Marinette and Madison.

MME. SCHUMANN HEINK.

In order to bring this world-famed contralto to Janesville it is necessary to raise a large guarantee and the citizens of Janesville are expected to liberally subscribe for tickets to make this a success. It is a matter of great importance to every city to raise the standard of music and the time have arrived when cities the size of Janesville as well as the large musical centers, demand the great artists. In many cities chambers of commerce are taking up the matter of promoting fine concerts for they realize that this form of civic promotion is a municipal asset and that it is no inconsiderable thing to have the honor of the appearance of such an artist as Schumann-Heink. Music is for the masses and it is to the business man, the manufacturer, the tradesman, buyer, salesman and clerk that Schumann-Heink appeals as well as to those musically educated.

"Good music is both pleasure and education," says Mrs. Shepard. "It opens the heart and develops aspects of life at her country place at Sugar, New Jersey is a fitting example for any American woman. Mme. Schumann-Heink is an American citizen although born in Lieben, near Prague, Bohemia. She was educated in the convent of the Ursuline nuns at Prague.

Cruelty.

Stahner's Cruelty exhibition is built around the fact of the Crucifixion. The history of holy week, beginning with Holy Thursday, is carried forward in recitations by bass and tenor voices. The themes suggested by the text are amplified in full chorus, and the whole composition is interspersed with hymns to be sung by the congregation, which mark successive stages in the progress of the passion history.

The service will be sung Friday evening, April 7, at St. Peter's Lutheran church, by the choir, assisted by local soloists. An offering will be gathered.

GREAT LOVE STORIES of HISTORY

By Albert Payson Terhune

Horatio and Curia

(Copyright, by the author.)

Horatia was the daughter of a noble Roman family. In the ancient days when Rome was a small city and ruled by a line of kings. The nearby city of Alba Longa was Rome's chief rival for the supremacy of that part of Italy. In Alba Longa lived a young nobleman named Curia, who had won Horatia's love. The two were betrothed.

The girl had, with her own hands, woven for her lover a rich cloak of many bright colors. This cloak was the envy of the rough Albanians and was the dearest possession of young Curia.

The king of Rome was Tullius Hostilius, a warlike sovereign, who desired to make his city the strongest in all Italy. He began by declaring war on Alba Longa. A few border skirmishes started the hostilities. Then an Alban army under King Clutius marched against Rome. Tullius and the Roman troops went out to meet the invaders and the two opposing armies drew up in battle line, waiting their leaders' orders to begin the conflict.

Then it was that the Alban king, Clutius, sent a messenger to Tullius with the following proposal:

A Strange Triple Duel. He said it was useless to sacrifice many lives in warfare when a smaller number might serve the purpose just as well. He therefore suggested that each side select three champions, and that these six men fight to the death. The army whose three representatives should be slain was to be declared defeated without further battle.

The idea appealed to Tullius. He accepted the challenge and chose for Rome's champions Horatia's three brothers, known as "the Horatii." Clutius selected young Curia and the latter's two brothers to fight for Alba Longa. Curia was thus forced to contend for his life and the honor of his native city against the brothers of the girl he loved.

The three "Horatii" and the three "Curia" put on their armor and marched out into a great open space between the two waiting armies. There the strange triple duel began. For a long time the fight waged and the issue hung in doubt. One after another, at last, all three of the Curia were badly wounded. Two of the Horatii were slain outright. The surprise of both armies, the third of the Horatii turned and fled. He was still unwounded. As he was known to be a brave man, no one could understand his flight.

But the ruse was soon explained. The three wounded Curia pursued him fiercely. They did not keep together, but "strung out" some distance apart in the chase. As soon as they were so far apart that they could no longer assist each other, Horatia suddenly turned upon the one who was nearest to him. Rushing at the wounded, tired man, he killed him with one blow of his sword. Then, in the same way, he attacked and slew in succession the second and third of the Curia.

Dragging from the body of his sister's dead lover the gorgeous cloak the girl had woven, Horatia threw the garment about his own shoulders, as a trophy, and was carried back to Rome on the upraised shields of his applauding comrades. He had saved the day for his city.

Horatia, with the other Roman women, had been watching for the army's return. As her brother was borne in triumph through the gates who saw the cloak about his shoulders and knew what had befallen her lover. Hurting through the cheering crowd, she barred the victor's way. Weeping and with dishevelled hair, she solemnly cursed him for the death of Curia.

Horatia, the fury of battle still upon him, drew his sword, that yet reeked with Curia's blood, and stabbed Horatia to the heart, shouting:

"So perish all who mourn their country's foes!"

In an instant the triumphal procession was changed to a throng of angry soldiers and townsfolk clamoring for the murderer's blood. Horatia was dragged before the judges. They condemned him to be whipped to death. But in recognition of his battle record it was later decided that a heavy fine and a public humiliation would suffice as punishment.

Horatia's body lay unburied where it had fallen until passersby piled a heap of stones above it to mark the last resting place of the woman who had dared to place love before patriotism.

EVERY EXPRESS BRINGS BIG SHIPMENTS DIRECT FROM NEW YORK

COATS, SUITS AND DRESSES

We are keeping our stock complete in every line and new things are ordered as fast as those on hand are purchased.

NOTE—The Big Store is a member of a Fashion Reporting Service Bureau of New York City, whose business it is to know what styles are being shown in the most exclusive shops of New York, and who make weekly reports with illustrations to all members. By being a member of this service bureau it is equivalent to making a trip to New York each week so far as styles are concerned, as we are fully informed.

Suits For Easter Wear

This season's styles we believe to be the prettiest brought out for a number of years. The straight line effects are stunning. The colors are light tans, grays, and new mixtures, as well as the staple blues and blacks. The large collar and long roll lapels are striking features of the spring showings.

Women who prefer the extreme cut in styles will find them here, as well as those who favor the more conservative styles and colors.

New cream serges, new black and white novelties, in English fabrics, and mixtures are the vogue. See them at The Big Store.

The showing is complete. Price range is very comprehensive.

Coat Selling is Very Brisk

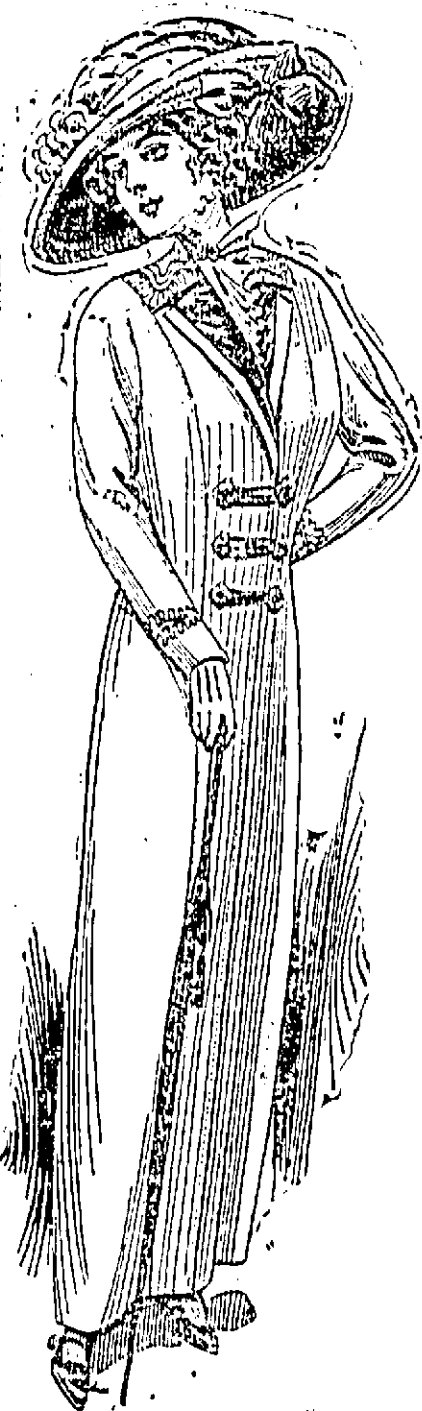

If you plan a new Coat for Easter you will surely want to see the countless styles shown here. You know that "We Keep the Quality Up," that every garment must measure up to our high standard before we accept it. Styles in coats come from the leading style centers, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Chicago. The fashions of these cities vary a little, but our outlet is so large that we can buy from all and then not have enough.

Black Satin Coats are very strong. A novelty that is hard to get is the black satin, wool backed. This makes a charming dressy coat that at the same time is comfortable. Black and white even stripes are popular, the stripes being of even width and about a sixteenth of an inch wide. Cream serges are good, the new English suitings are handsome, fancy plaids set with touches of color are striking, and the plain shades also come in for much favorable comment. The long roll lapels, the tailored sailor collars, and the shawl collar are good. Coats button with one, two and three large buttons, a few set slightly to side.

Straight line styles, semi-fitting, and Empire prevail. Silk Coats are always comfortable and very nice for auto or for travel. They range in price from $12.00 to $25.00. All sizes, new styles.

Gowns and Dresses for Easter

In Costumes for the coming season we are showing an extensive variety of styles, each portraying distinction, beauty and high quality in every line. Fashionable Foulards, beautiful soft Taffetas, gauzy Chiffons, handsome Surah Silks, Marquisettes and dainty Lingeries. Also Paris inspired models, fashioned on the straighter, narrower lines. Many pleasing variations of the peasant blouse; kimono sleeves and collarless effects are shown.

APPAREL FOR

JUNIORS, MISSES and CHILDREN

In this section of our Apparel Section the Big Store stands alone. It offers probably the only complete lines, in the newest styles, for all ages, to be seen in Rock County.

The apparel for the younger ones this season seems to have borrowed the styles from the ladies. All the features are included, some being more or less modified.

Coats, Suits, Dresses, of every description, are to be found here. White Dresse for Easter and for confirmation, dainty little creations that you will wonder at. How these can be made to sell so reasonable in price is a mystery. If you want style in apparel for your children, be sure to pay us a visit. Whether you buy or not, you will be well repaid for coming.

Go to the Polls and Vote

If elected mayor, I expect to devote considerable time to the details, such as looking after street work which may be underway, and other like matters.

I purpose to establish office hours, when I shall be glad to receive anyone on matters of interest to the city, and all such matters will have respectful consideration.

There is no class of people that expect to receive any benefit from my election, further than they may receive through the general advancement of the city's interests.

If elected I shall assume the office with considerable sacrifice to myself, not only in the matter of time, but also of business, for as an officer of the city, I could not nor would I, sell the municipality any material during my term of office.

It is not often that a business man can give his time to a city's affairs and it is only possible with me through the efficiency of the men in my employ.

That Janesville is ready to advance is apparent to everyone. If elected I shall assist as in the past in all ways possible the progressive spirit and lend my aid to furthering the growth and good name of the city.

Of recent years only about 65% of the vote has been cast at spring elections. The candidates for mayor or aldermen may not be altogether acceptable to you, but it would certainly be a satisfaction to have a full vote, then they who are elected will feel that they have the support of the community back of them.

Having lived here practically all my life, and having the interest of the city at heart, if you select me as your choice, I shall endeavor to administer the affairs of the office to the advantage of all citizens alike.

Will you not all go to the polls and vote?

Very truly,

DIAZ GIVES WAY ON BIG QUESTION

Promises Effective Reforms in Mexican Election Laws.

AGREEABLE TO SINGLE TERM

In Message He Assures People of Future Improvement in Judiciary—Pays Tribute to Federal Soldiers.

Mexico City, April 3.—Committing himself to the advocacy of many of the reforms demanded by the revolutionists, although professing bowing only to the influence of public opinion, General Diaz answered his critics through his semi-annual message at the opening of the national congress.

For "Periodic Renovation." The message refers specifically to the application of the no-re-election principle to the naming of governors, one of the chief contentions of the discontented element throughout the republic, the president stating that if a bill providing for the "periodic renovation" of the officials in question should come before congress it would have his earnest support. He argues that as the principle of no re-election had not been broached of late in any of the legislative assemblies he had not thought it proper for the president to express an opinion on the subject.

Abuse of power by jefes politicos, another of the crying evils complained of by residents in the rural districts throughout Mexico, is to be abated, according to the plan outlined by the president.

He proposes to improve the efficiency of the judiciary through a more careful selection of its personnel and lengthening of the tenure of office. Efficacious punishment of judicial functionaries for malfeasance is to be brought about through the enactment of more stringent measures.

To Divide Big Estates. On the subject of the division of the great private estates, first broached by Minister Limantour in his Paris interview, the chief executive declared his determination to find efficient means for bringing about innovation.

In no previous message of the president has there ever been anything in the nature of a recommendation.

Applause Greets Reform.

President Diaz appeared no more aged than he did when he read his message in September, and in spite of the fact that the reading required more than an hour, his voice was as strong at the conclusion as at the beginning.

Only once was the president interrupted by applause. At the mention of reforms there was a spontaneous clapping of hands for a minute and then no more was heard until the close, when the big auditorium resounded with hand clapping and cries of "viva." The large audience followed the reading keenly.

Americans Are Friendly. General Diaz paid a high tribute to the loyalty and valor of the Mexican soldiers and took up the subject of the mobilization of the American army.

In connection with these serious occurrences, the executive had observed that the rebels were recruiting filibusters and effecting their organizations on American territory, and therefore drew the attention of the government of the United States to their acts. That government, acting by virtue of its laws of neutrality, at once adopted such measures as it deemed adequate, which the government of Mexico recognized and appreciates. A little later there was an unusual concentration of American forces near the border.

The executive, as in duty bound, says General Diaz, "gave instructions to Ambassador de la Barra at Washington to ask for an explanation of the step. That explanation crossed a message from President Taft in which he spontaneously gave assurances that this concentration of forces had no significance which should cause concern to the friendly neighbors of the United States on the south."

"The withdrawal of American warships which had been ordered to the waters of both our coasts and the fact that the land forces are shortly to engage in maneuvers afford the best proof of the sincerity of those assurances, which have been reiterated on subsequent occasions."

Asks Money for War. In order that the campaign against the rebels may be waged efficiently, the special appropriation for the war department will be somewhat larger than that usually asked for at the spring session of congress.

MRS. YERKES IS DEAD

WIDOW OF TRACTION MAGNATE SUCCEEDS TO DROPSY.

Became Bride of Wilson Mizner Four Years Ago, But Speedily Got Divorce.

New York, April 3.—Mrs. Mary Adelaide Yerkes, widow of Charles T. Yerkes, traction magnate of Chicago and London, died at her home here of heart trouble.

She had been in a critical condition for some days and her friends had been warned that her illness might result fatally.

About twenty-four years ago Mary Adelaide Yerkes, daughter of the Junior member of the drug firm of Powells, Weightman & Moore of Philadelphia, was married to Mr. Yerkes.

Yerkes had only just been released from the Cherry Hill penitentiary, where he had been sent after conviction for crime in connection with municipal franchises. In order to marry Miss Moore he obtained a divorce from the woman who had been devoted to him while he was in prison and had added materially in obtaining a commutation of his sentence.

For the first ten years of her married life the second Mrs. Yerkes was happy. Then one night her happiness was suddenly blasted, never to be restored. The blow was delivered by a friend of her husband after a dinner in the magnificent residence in 17th avenue which had been built by Yerkes for his wife.

This friend whispered a scandal in her ear in connection with her husband. That resulted in a separation.

About four years ago Yerkes died from pneumonia, after a few days' illness in the Waldorf-Astoria.

In less than twelve months later the widow was married quietly in her home to Wilson Mizner, her second married life lasted about one week. A few months later Mrs. Yerkes obtained a divorce.

It is estimated that Mrs. Yerkes obtained about $3,000,000 as her share of her husband's estate.

BLAMES OFFICIALS FOR FIRE

New York Meeting Applauds When Structures Are Put Upon Laxity of Civic Duty.

New York, April 3.—"Administrative inefficiency," as the direct cause of the Triangle Shirtwaist company fire, where the lives of more than 140 women, girls and men were sacrificed ten days ago, was charged at the citizens' mass meeting in the Metropolitan opera house by Prof. R. A. F. Sellman of Columbia university.

The tremendous throng which filled every seat in the house interrupted this fearless statement with bravos and cheers and continued applause. When Comptroller William A. Prendergast a few minutes later spoke in support of Prof. Sellman's remarks, there was a second demonstration.

Following the speeches of many others a long resolution was read and adopted in which it was provided that a committee of five would be appointed with power to co-operate with other organizations and committees to select a permanent committee to make a continued effort to secure needed reforms.

FEZ IS REPORTED BESIEGED

Sultan Held Prisoner by Rebelious Tribesmen Who Are Said to Surround City.

Tangier, April 3.—Great anxiety is felt here concerning the position at Fez. Since the defeat of the sultan's troops by the rebellious tribesmen on March 26 the sultan has been a practical prisoner, and his brother, Muhammad Ismail, has been repeatedly proclaimed ruler of Morocco.

The latest news is to the effect that the victorious tribesmen surround the city. If the place is completely besieged it must soon surrender on account of the lack of food and the scarcity of well water. The means of resistance, too, are slight.

There are conflicting reports concerning the safety of Europeans. It is said they have been threatened with massacre, and they are still in peril.

Another report says they have all taken refuge in the house of a sheriff, where they are safe.

KENNEDY TO BE A CARDINAL

Philadelphia, April 3.—Right Rev. Thomas F. Kennedy, bishop of Adrianapolis, president of the North American college at Rome, Italy, and a great personal favorite of the pope, shortly will be appointed as an American cardinal. This statement is made upon authority of a Roman Catholic so high in church affairs that it is entitled to much consideration.

According to the same source, the appointment will be the direct result of the suffragan bishops of the Catholic church refusing to abide by the demands of the pope, who had intimated that he would like to see Bishop Kennedy recommended as a successor to Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia.

KILL 34 REBELS IN RUNNING FIGHT

Mexicans Rout Insurrectos After Dance and Orgy.

SHOT DOWN LIKE RABBITS

Maderos Arrive in El Paso to Plan for Opening of Peace Conference—Juarez Is Shaken by Bombs.

Chihuahua, Mex., April 3.—Thirty-four rebels were killed and scores were wounded in a clash between a detachment of 350 federal soldiers and 150 insurrectos at Aldama.

The insurrectos are said to have been shot down like rabbits in a running fight following a surprise attack by the federals. Diaz soldiers declare they lost only four men killed, two of whom were lieutenants who led the federals in the chase.

Rout Follows Orgy.

The rout followed an orgy which the insurrectos staged after they had marched into Aldama without resistance early on Friday. Not anticipating attack, their officers bound invitations to a dance and then began the killing of 20 head of cattle, announcing that they were preparing the beef for the supper of 1,000 rebels encamped some distance south of the city of Chihuahua.

At the dance both the rebel hosts and their guests drank heavily, and late in the night the insurrectos camp was pitched in a grove near the edge of town. No rebel sentries were out when the federals launched their attack, and few of the rebels had their guns. They fled toward the town and were shot down as they ran.

Among the rebel dead are Captains Francisco and Jose Portillo, brothers.

Maderos Reach El Paso.

El Paso, Tex., April 3.—Revels of peace rumors were started with the arrival here of Francisco I. Madero, Sr., and Alfonso Madero, father and brother to the Mexican insurrecto president; of Lito Estrada, a lawyer of Mexico City, and of Hernandez Gonzalez. They came from San Antonio and went at once to their hotel.

To reporters the two Maderos refused to make any statements. Asked if he had come here on a mission of peace, the senior Madero said: "Perhaps so. I will tell you later."

Bombs Shake Juarez.

Francisco Sonora, a federal soldier, was killed and three men wounded by the explosion of three bombs in Calle Madero in Ciudad Juarez at midnight. The real purpose of the explosion is inexplicable.

The first explosion occurred in the street in front of La Favorita dance hall, and as the revelers ran out women shouted that two men on top of a roof opposite the dance hall had thrown a bomb. A number of special policemen and soldiers dashed into the building where the men were supposed to be and two more bombs were hurled at them as they got into the patio or court. The two bomb throwers escaped.

Rahner, who was recognized from a photograph, when arrested was working as a messenger boy and had only five cents of the small fortune he says he stole.

The Railroads of Queensland.

The length of all railroads in Queensland is 3,843 miles, with about five hundred miles under construction. The Queensland parliament is considering government proposals for constructing a railroad, 451 miles, between Rockhampton and Cairns, in the northern section, and for a 1,282-mile line, north to south, in the western part, connecting with the railroad systems from Brisbane and Rockhampton on the coast and running westward.

New Railway Lines.

Approximately 3,748 miles of new railway lines were laid down in the United States in the year 1909, as compared with 3,214 miles in 1908. The 1908 record was the smallest since 1897, when 2,109 miles were built. This not increase during the year is about 16 1/2 per cent, and 28 per cent, less mileage was built than in 1907.

ELECTION NOTICE

OFFICE OF COUNTY CLERK, March 27, 1911.

To the Electors of Rock County: Notice is hereby given that a judicial and schools election is to be held in the several towns, wards and election precincts in the County of Rock, on the 4th day of April, 1911, at which the officers named below are to be chosen. The name of the candidate for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to this office, are given opposite the title of the office and under the appropriate party or other designation, each in its proper column.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters: A voter upon entering the polling place, and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk, which must have endorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment, and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may not follow the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for. If a voter wishes to vote for some of the candidates of different political parties, he should make a cross mark under the name of each candidate he desires to vote for, or at any place within the space in which the name is printed. If he wishes to vote for a person for a certain office, whose name is not on the ballot, he must write the name in the blank space under the printed name of the candidate for the office. The ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the ballot be spoiled it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in the booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memoranda to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be seen, how it has been marked by the voter, to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter. After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth or compartment, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box and hand him his ballot to be placed in the box and pass out of the voting place. A voter who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of one or two election officers in marking the same, to be chosen by the voter, and if he declares that he is totally blind he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath, in his discretion, as to such person's disability. The party designations and candidates for the different offices are, for example, as follows:

SPOKE ON LOVE AND AFFECTION

"COMPELLING POWER OF A GREAT AFFECTION" WAS REV. BEATON'S SUBJECT IN SERMON YESTERDAY.

TOLD OF THE SANE LOVE

The Love of Christ Should Not Be Mechanical But Should Come From Heart and Spirit.

"For the love of Christ constrains all us; because we thus judge and if one died for all, then were all dead." This, the fourteenth verse of the second chapter of the second Corinthians, was the text of the sermon by Rev. David Beaton of the First Congregational church yesterday morning. The title of the sermon was, "The Compelling Power of a Great Affection," and Rev. Beaton dwelt at length upon the Pauline theory in regard to love.

"In olden times," he said, "men were in the habit of dividing the mind into the secular and non-secular, the physical and the intellectual, and saying that one of these in some cases, outweighed the other. Later Christianity changed all of these notions and the lines between these were broken down and it was discovered that the human mind was one. Thus the idea that love was more important than clear thinking and that the intellect was non-moral and love moral, which was a dangerous doctrine, was done away with. There is more danger in letting our affections get away with us than there is in our intellect guiding us wrongly.

"If we are to understand what Christianity means by the love of Christ, we must understand it as the constraining influence of human life. Whether moved by ambition or the intellect, they are the same and of the same weight. This kind of love is the product of a normal mind and not of an abnormal one. Herein lies the value of an example like the life of either Luther, Shakespeare, or Goethe, for these was the same, normal and rational mind. The same constraints that move us in different places in life are the same in religion. If they did not then the idea of our religion would be all wrong. St. Paul was an example of us in clear thinking and when he was accused of being a fanatic he said that if he was it was for God.

"Paul was not an emotional scholar, but was a sane and rational thinker. The Pauline philosophy expressed in the text of this sermon, calls for the highest pitch of religious passion and still his words are of a reasoning nature and the words 'therefore' and 'wherefore' are to be found throughout. The love of Christ constrains us because it is a result of reasoning from facts and is the motive power of Christianity. It is the joining power of passion and intellect.

"What is the nature of love and affection? It seems easy to understand and still we must guard ourselves against passion, whether it be for a person or for money. Affection is different for the friend, a lover or for the father or child. Lowell said that to lay down one's life for a friend was the highest type of affection and any violation of the ties of this nature is the violation of the most sacred of affections. It is based upon the honorable and the intellectual and if it was based upon irrational and fanciful grounds it would be ineffective.

"That is the real reason that Paul said that we are ambassadors of Christ. It is not right to give your selves to Jesus just because he is Jesus and to reverse the mere name, but it is the love that is based upon sane and rational grounds and not upon mere sentiment that counts. That is the real meaning of affection for it is a matter of thought and inspiration. It is the meaning of the love of Christ. The constraint in the love of Christ is the constraint that appeals to the heart and to the spirit. A good illustration of this is the example of the old Greek and Persian soldiers. The latter had to go into battle at the urging of a lash while the former looked themselves in the robes of the bridegroom. This latter method won out in the long run because it was inspired by a great love and it is so with all love which is based upon intellectual and rational grounds.

"The Pauline expression that the love of Christ constrains us, therefore, is based upon a great love, inspired by the intellect and a sane and rational thinker and is an expression of what should underlie the love of us all. This constraint is the very root and base of Christianity. It is said to think of the time when wisdom and old age shall take away the power to attract and there is no solace in that, but the solace lies in the fact that the greatest love is the love of Christ, inspired by a sane and intellectual thought as that of the Apostle Paul."

ECLIPSE OF SUN IS DUE DURING APRIL

Can Be Seen in the United States And As Far South As Panama.

There will be a total eclipse of the sun April 28, visible as a partial eclipse throughout the greater part of the United States, down to Panama, over the middle of the Pacific ocean and eastern Australia. The path of totality lies wholly in the ocean, passing over some groups of islands. Janesville will be close to the northern limit of visibility of the partial eclipse, and a little entering of the dark moon on the southern limit of the sun may be detected about three-quarters of an hour before sunrise. The above information is given out by Professor G. C. Comstock of the Washburn observatory at Madison. Other data supplied by the observatory is to the effect that Mercury, Venus and Saturn will all be to the west in the evening sky during the early and middle part of the month, while the brilliant Jupiter will be seen rising later over the southeastern horizon followed in the early morning by Mars.

NEW PRINCIPAL FOR EVANSVILLE SCHOOL

F. J. Waddell Will Succeed F. J. Lowth As Principal of Evansville High School.—Annual Contest Held.

Evansville, April 3.—At the regular meeting of the board of education held at the high school building Friday, March 31, F. J. Waddell was elected as principal of the high school for the coming year to succeed Principal F. J. Lowth, who has been appointed principal of the new Rock County Training School. For the past three years Mr. Waddell has been instructor in science and during that time his efficient work and exemplary conduct has made for him a vast army of friends to whom his promotion is gratifying. It is understood that there were over thirty other applicants for the position.

Annual Contest.—The declamatory and oratorical contest of the Evansville high school held in the first Baptist church Friday evening drew an unusually large audience that listened to a splendid program. The contestants all did remarkably well and showed thorough preparation. In the declamatory contest Miss Barbara Pearson of the sophomore class won first honors in her recitation "The Innate of the Dungeon." Second place was given Miss Belle Green of the Junior class, subject, "The Hero Woman." Third place was won by Miss Ruth Chase, a Senior. Her subject was "The Slave Ship." In the oratorical contest first place was won by Robert Hall of the Senior class, who gave "Irryan's Chicago Speech," second place, Cecil Ware also a Senior whose subject was "The Negro." The Evansville school will be represented at the annual league contest at Detroit by Miss Barbara Pearson and Robert Hall.

The musical part of the program consisted of vocal solos by the Misses Marjorie Wallace and Edith Hyne, a violin duet by Messrs. Frank and Lloyd Wilder and a piano duet by the Misses Marjorie Wallace and Marjorie Wilder. The music was especially fine and much enjoyed.

Surprise Party.—Sidney Tom Eyck was given an enjoyable surprise by a number of friends at his home on Liberty street Friday evening in celebration of his twentieth birthday. A fine supper was served at six o'clock and the remainder of the evening was passed with games and music. A pleasant time was enjoyed and Mr. Tom Eyck was the recipient of numerous remembrances.

Personal Mention.—Arthur Moore who has been working on the telephone line at Madison and Jefferson, has been at home suffering with influenza for the past few days. When Claude Stanshall returned from Chicago Thursday evening he brought back with him Master Charles Schultz, whose grandmother, Mrs. Phifer is a guest at the Stanshall home. Mrs. Elia Skinner and Mrs. Van Voorhis, who have been here visiting their sister and aunt, Mrs. E. C. Phifer, have returned to their home in Elgin, Ill.

Mrs. George Shaw, who has been very sick for some time is gradually recovering. Miss Alice Holmes who is teaching at Elkhorn, is home for the spring vacation.

WOMAN, AGED 91, A SUICIDE
Grief Over Absence of Her Nonagenarian Husband Causes Mary Carthy to End Her Life.

Denver, Colo., April 3.—Grieving over the absence of her nonagenarian husband, and fearing that something may have befallen him, Mrs. Mary Carthy, aged ninety-one years, ended her life by drinking carbolic acid. Her body was found in a heap at the foot of the stairs leading to the cellar of her home.

Mrs. Carthy took her life just three weeks to a day from the time Richard Carthy, her husband, strong and healthy for his ninety years, kissed her good-by and told her he was going to Fair Play, Colo., in search of some kind of easy work. His parting words were an admonishment to his partner for sixty-five years not to worry.

CANALEJAS IN POWER

SPANISH PREMIER INVITED TO REMAIN BY KING.

His Continuation in Power is Regarded as the Only Solution of a Grave Crisis.

Madrid, April 3.—The ministerial crisis, which appeared fraught with the greatest possibilities, seems to have ended as abruptly as it began. It has resolved itself, seemingly to the general relief, into a second reconstruction of the Canalejas ministry.

King Alfonso, on his arrival from Seville, immediately received Senor Canalejas and requested him to continue in power. The premier agreed on condition that he be permitted to make such changes in the cabinet as he deemed necessary. To this the king readily assented.

The retiring ministers probably will be General Aznar, minister of war, who was mainly responsible for the crisis by his attitude in demanding that the Ferrer debate be suspended immediately by a vote of the majority, and Senor Cobian, minister of finance, who appears never to have been wholly in agreement with the oligarchic policy of the premier.

It is understood that one of the first steps of the premier will be to relieve the captain general of Madrid of his command. The continuation of Senor Canalejas in power is universally regarded as the only possible solution of a crisis of exceptional gravity.

Canalejas is supported both by public opinion in Madrid and the provinces and all sections of the liberals, as well as by many conservatives. Make your advertising a steady diet and not a banquet.

CONFERENCE FAILED AND PAINTERS HAVE GONE ON A STRIKE

Painters and Contractors Could Not Reach Agreement Saturday Night and Union Men Walked Out.

Union painters in the city, numbering between thirty and thirty-five men, struck today, following the failure of the conference on Saturday night of representatives of the painters and the contractors. J. P. Hutchinson and E. J. Kent appeared as the representatives for the Master Painters Association and Godfrey Holtz, Ernest Graf, Harry Gaffey and E. D. Atkinson for Union No. 723, Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America. The principal points of difference upon which an agreement could not be reached was concerning the closed shop which the union demanded and the minimum wage scale. The union fixed the minimum price at thirty cents per hour but the master painters stood firm for employing who they desired and making an agreement with the men separately as to wages.

A meeting was held by the union after the conference and it was decided to strike today. This morning the union men again gathered for a discussion of plans in the union labor hall on West Milwaukee street. It is stated they will remain out until the contractors come to terms. Organizer John Adams of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, has been asked to come to this city to conduct the strike. Only one firm, Conklin & Atkinson, both of whom are union men, have signed the contract drawn up by the union. The other painting and paperhanging firms are working on much reduced forces, some non-union men remaining at work.

JAPAN IS FOR PEACE

MAKES IMPORTANT MOVE FOR ARBITRATION TREATIES.

Stands Ready to Revise Convention of 1905 If It Should Interfere With Anglo-American Pact.

Washington, April 3.—The Japanese government in an effort to carry out all reasonable peace provisions and conventions among the great powers and desiring not to stand in the way of pending negotiations for arbitration treaties, will readily agree to a revision of the Hayashi-Lane treaty of 1905 if this should be found to interfere with the terms of the Anglo-American treaty.

This fact, cabled to Washington from Tokyo is the result of important and hurried exchanges since Friday between the Japanese embassy and the foreign office at Tokyo. The circumstances that led to it were purely theoretical, but notwithstanding this they have given way to an important decision.

In taking the stand of being ready to revise the Anglo-Japanese treaty, the authorities of the Japanese empire are acting on the assumption that the convention of six years ago may be found to clash with the arbitration agreement between the United States and Great Britain. As this contingency was widely published, even if without color of official positiveness, the Japanese embassy lost no time in transmitting to the home office the point of view it sought to carry.

It appears, according to information about the matter obtained here, that Japan wishes to go on record as being ready to support both in practice as well as in spirit her policy of good understanding and friendly terms with both the United States and Great Britain. Feeling that she has nothing to lose by permitting the Anglo-American pact to go through, and that nothing in Japanese state-manship may suffer from its enactment, Japan will inform the two principals through her ambassadors of her intentions.

The intention has always been to form an arbitration triumvirate by participation of Japan, England and the United States.

WOMAN'S PAGE

To Our Women Readers.

"Let us eat and drink
For tomorrow we shall die."

The second "Woman's" contest begins today. This time you must suggest a menu for a week, 21 meals. The rules of the contest are:
Write on one side of the paper only.
Menus must be made up entirely from receipts printed on the woman's page of the Gazette.
Menus must be mailed to Feature Editor of the Gazette by May 1st, 1911.
Menus must be accompanied with a list of dates giving date of publication of the receipts used.
Here are a few suggestions that will help.

Secure from the Gazette the FREE scrap book and paste into it each night the receipts published. This scrap book can be had free in exchange for the scrap book coupon which appears in the Gazette every day during April. Call at the Gazette office for it, or send for it by mail, enclosing 20 stamp to pay postage.

If you have any "pet" receipts that you would like to use in your menus, and you think they will not be published on the woman's page so as to make them available for contest use, simply write the receipt on a piece of paper and mail it to the Feature Editor. It will then be published and you can use it, but every other contestant will be allowed to use it if they wish. The art in this contest is to select receipts in such a manner as to make the entire menu in harmony. It calls for the best talent in each contestant, and is going to make this contest the most interesting ever inaugurated in Janesville.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

MY DEAR MISS CAMERON:

"I am a reader of this paper and have noticed with interest the different occupations for women you sometimes suggest in your columns.

"Now, I would appreciate it very much if you would suggest some ways by which a college girl can earn money during her summer vacation. I refer to a college girl who is trying as nearly as possible to earn her own way through college. What can you suggest in this line that would not bring her to the opening of the college year, tired out and unfit for the year's work?"

"An early answer through the columns of the paper is greatly desired."

Again I am going to ask my readers' help.

On the previous occasions when I have requested this I have found my readers most generous with their excellent suggestions, and I am sure they will be again. Last summer I happened to hear of two college girls who spent the summer as book agents in southern Canada. They went through every primitive country which had not been done to death by summer tourists, and were regarded by the country people as a most welcome diversion.

Consequently, according to the reports which I got, they both had a delightful time and made very good money.

Other college girls whom I have known have earned money during the summer by acting as governesses, as monitors at summer camps, as play teachers in summer playgrounds, as teachers in summer schools, as clerks in the civil service (the examination is the last of April, I think) or in ordinary offices.

None of these things are very unique, so I am afraid I have not contributed much to the subject. And here, of course, is where I want my readers' help.

If you know of any way in which a college or high school girl has earned money in the summer, won't you write and tell us about it?

Through these columns I will pass your suggestion on, to this girl and to any others who may be desirous of similar information.

One variety of the "serpent skirt" is called the "cobra." In this the resemblance is borne out by a skillful color effect and by white buttons which gleam as eyes.

Dressmakers predict wide American popularity for the "serpent skirt." Already they have picked it as the fall which will displace the hobble skirt and all the other present models. But they have given up the hobble skirt as unwomanly and impossible.

When a Man is Fortunate.
Do not think you are fortunate when conditions are easy for you. You are most fortunate when they are hard. Case never brings out the best in man or woman, but hardship does. The finest characters are those that have been literally hammered out by adverse circumstances. The sweetest personalities are as a rule those that have developed because of the battles fought with hardship.

It is Hamilton Wright Albee who says: "A man is specially and divinely fortunate, not when his conditions are easy, but when they evoke the very best that is in him; when they provoke him to nobleness, and sting him to strength; when they clear his vision, kindle his enthusiasm and inspire his will."

The happiest man is he who feels that he is accomplishing something and at the same time overcoming his obstacles. When a man has nothing to overcome he becomes stagnant; he is of no interest to himself or any one else.

But give this same man an object in life, give him obstacles to overcome and he becomes a vitalized, galvanized human being.

It is said that the greatest suffering soldiers know comes through inactivity. Scientists have said that sheer weariness of camp life has destroyed nearly as many men as has battle. Inactivity is not an attribute of the normal man, and when he is forced to accept it as his portion something goes wrong.

Keep a boy inactive, allow him no obstacles to overcome. Give him everything he needs and never allow him to lift his finger to help himself and see what sort of a man you make of him.

The easy berth makes the shiftless, irresponsible character. Obstacles are sure to make him the opposite. That is, they will if he has the least particle of fight in him. There is something in the very fact that we are opposed to anything that raises every drop of our fighting blood to its highest point and we immediately set all our forces at work to overcome them.

Then it is that all that is finest and noblest in a man commences to come to the surface. Take a man and suddenly toss him out of luxury's lap to shift for himself. If he is any sort of man at all, he soon develops an interest in life he never before had, and he seeks to overcome whatever of disappointment or loss he may have sustained, and the chances are that he will do this.

If you are a workman with a daily task to perform, don't feel badly about it. You have your object in life and the very fact that you have "kiddies" for whom you must work probably makes you a better man than you would otherwise have been. Your responsibilities make you desirous to make the most of your opportunity and to progress as rapidly as you can.

A Few Simple Salads.
During the early spring months there is no salad more simple in preparation or more generally satisfactory than the lettuce and cream.

For a variety, make a nest of cream and in it place a few carefully divided sections of grape fruit. Serve with French dressing made by using a tablespoonful of vinegar and three of olive oil; a teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of red pepper.

A few peanuts rolled with a rolling pin and then sprinkled over crisp fresh lettuce and served with French dressing makes a fine salad.

Young green onions sliced with fresh radishes on lettuce with a boiled dressing served on cream or lettuce in another good spring salad.

Cream Cheese Salad.

Season cream cheese with salt, pepper and chopped chives, mold in balls with butter paddles; arrange two or three in a nest of blanched lettuce, or if the lettuce is not good, cut it with the wheels or a sharp knife into shreds. Serve with French dressing.

Stuffed Tomato Salad.

Firm, raw tomatoes may be hollowed out and stuffed with a variety of edibles. Finely sliced meat, well marinated with oil dressing or seasonings, one or more cooked vegetables; raw cucumbers cut in dice and mixed with onion, water cress and celery, as well as other greens and fruits, which will accord with the taste.

Summer Salad.

Pare, core and cut a ripe pine apple in cubes; slice tender celery. To each pint mix a cup of broken pecan meats; molasses with mayonnaise and garnish with pecans and sliced pineapple.

When using mayonnaise, to make it go further, add whipped cream or the white of an egg beaten stiff. The dressing may be colored to harmonize with any color scheme.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's remedy has done for me. For two years I suffered. The doctors said I had tumors, and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Vegetable Compound has cured me. I have no equal as a cathartic. Any one wishing proof of what your medicines have done for me can get it from any druggist or by writing to me. You can see my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mount St., Peoria, Ill.

Another Operation Avoided.

New Orleans, La.—"For years I suffered from severe female troubles. Finally I was confined to my bed, and the doctor said an operation was necessary. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial first, and was saved from an operation."—Mrs. LILY PIVROUX, 1111 Kerlerec St., New Orleans, La.

The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a remarkable remedy for those distressing female troubles from which so many women suffer.

SOME SHERLOCK HOLMESING

(Dr. M. Howland Hopkins of London, says that cannibalism is practically the solution of the problem of dietetics, that naturally such a diet would provide the exact supply of proteins needed.)

I have my doubts of Lucius Jones; I'm filled with acute disgust. He is a living rack of bones. And cannot find a diet that will agree; he keeps on growing thinner—Just yesterday he said to me: "We must have you for dinner!"

It seemed to me his hungry eyes were estimating. That with his sad and sickly sigh he then was calculating. My points and ounces on the hoof. And, as I am a sinner, I draw myself from him aloof—He wanted me for dinner!

Of course, if one views it aright he might feel complimented. To know he'd roused an appetite that would not be contented (until a year-around)—A hearty beginner—He'd picked me out among us all And had had him for dinner.

But, honestly, when Lucius Jones My daily stroll will follow, And looks so like a rack of bones, And also looks so hollow, I feel like leading him a race in which I'll be a winner—The gaunt expression of his face, Shows he wants me for dinner.

I'd love to go with him to dine And bark to merry chatter—But it is not so very fine To go upon a platter! And so though poor Lucius grows Each day and hour the thinner, I'll see my every action show, I'll not have him for dinner.

WILBUR D. NESBIT.

That's Me.

If there's anything to be glad about I'm glad about it. If there's anything to be sad about I'm sad about it. I'm either one or the other; I don't think every man's my brother, Nor that I'm bound with some one's fetter. Nor that the world is worse or better When I am creditor or debtor—That's me!

If there's anything I must sigh about I'll sigh about it. If there's anything I must cry about I'll cry about it. I don't go half-and-half with trouble And thus make every fretting double; No optimism can deceive me. No pessimism views shall grieve me— I don't care whether you believe me—That's me!

If there's anything I should wink about I'll wink about it. If there's anything I should think about I'll think about it. I'll try to do, though, not tomorrow, I'll share my joys and not my sorrow; I'll walk my way, or smooth or muddy, My own approval I will study. I know I can't please everybody. That's me!

Catarrh is Surely a Dangerous Disease

Thousands of people allow catarrh to slowly undermine the whole system until a serious disease develops—sometimes consumption.

People who have catarrh should use every effort to get rid of it, but should above all adopt a sensible method. Stomach dosing, sprays and douches won't cure catarrh because it is a germ disease, and the germs must be destroyed before the disease can be conquered.

HYOMEL is the one sensible cure for catarrh because it reaches every fold, crevice and nook in the mucous membrane and gets where the germs are. You breathe HYOMEL and as it passes over the inflamed membrane its soothing influence heals the soreness and destroys the germs.

A complete HYOMEL outfit costs $1.00. This consists of a bottle of HYOMEL and a hard rubber inhaler. Pour a few drops of HYOMEL into the inhaler and breathe it a few minutes each day, that's all you have to do. It is guaranteed by The People's Drug Co. and druggists everywhere to cure catarrh, coughs, colds and sore throat or money back. Extra bottle of HYOMEL costs 50 cents. Free trial sample on request from Booth's Hyomel Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

EAT LIGHTLY IN SICKNESS.

Don't "eat to keep up your strength" in sickness. Strength is required for digestion and elimination of waste from food and when the food is not digested, which is likely to be the case in severe illness, the waste of vitality is increased by the necessity of disposing of the poisons produced from the undigested food. A four-year-old child, sick with measles, was given an egg-nog, which is easily digested, but it was promptly ejected and the child, unusually healthy, was out within two days. The less normal stomach of a middle-aged person in sickness would have retained such a ration to its detriment. There is almost always more danger of over-feeding in sickness than of underfeeding.

FREAK FADS AND FASHIONS AT THE CHICAGO DRESSMAKERS' CONVENTION.

Chicago.—The "serpent skirt," the newest fashion of Paris and the continent and authentic successor to the hobble skirt, has come to Chicago.

Plaster illustrating this white of the European fashions were shown at the dressmakers' convention in the Palmer home for the first time.

"The skirt is a hybrid of the 'hobble skirt' of a season ago and the 'accordion plait' of remoter fashion. It fits tightly from the hips down. Indeed, if it were built without the plait it would precede walking.

But just here comes the beauty of plait. As the wearer of the 'serpent skirt' walks the skirt expands and contracts with the motion of the limbs. The skirt maintains almost uniform snugness.

The fashions which came in with the hobble skirts—light, silk girdles instead of corsets, and the rest—will remain. The hobble skirt will be relegated to the tennis courts and golf courses, dressmakers declare. "It's too extreme for American women," they say, "except for wear in athletic."

The plait shown recently at the dressmakers' convention were direct from Paris, where the "serpent skirt" is finding almost instantaneous vogue. It is thought that the model will not appear on the streets of Chicago until autumn.

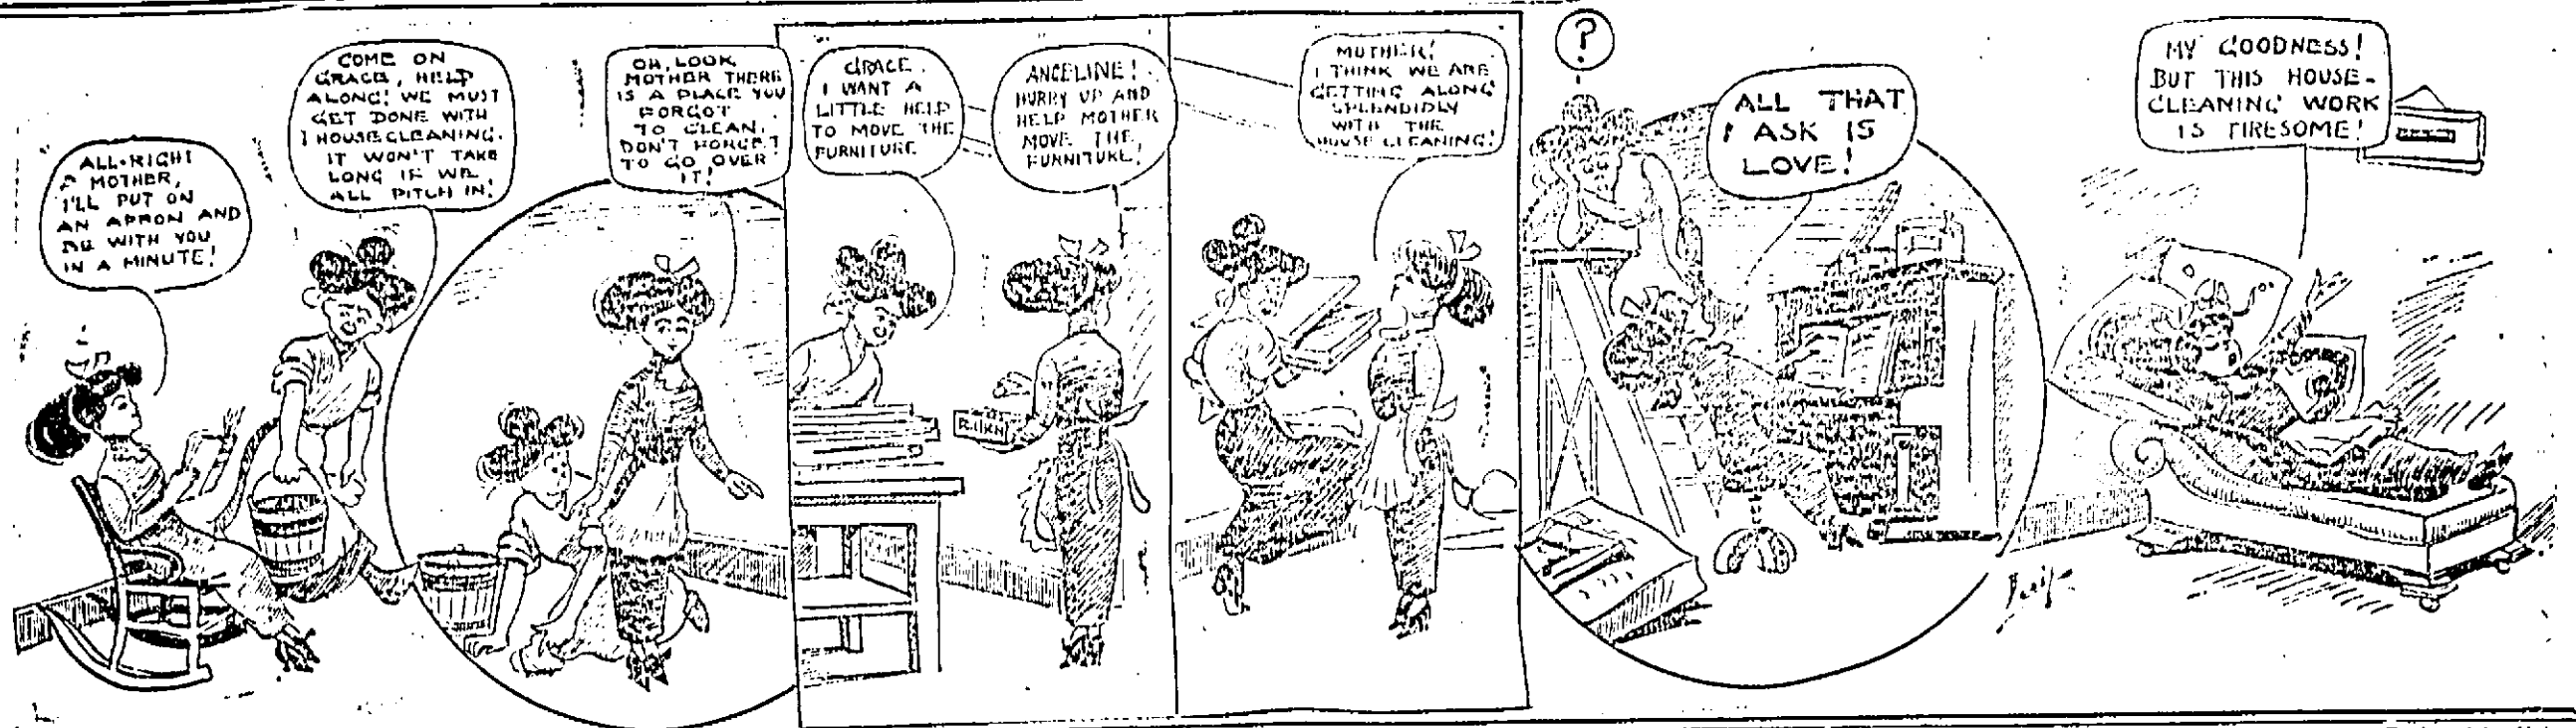

WASHINGTON'S IRVING'S BIRTHDAY.

April 3.—Washington Irving, the distinguished American author, was born April 3, 1783, in New York city. He entered a law office at the age of 16, but spent most of his time in his father's library reading Spencer and Chaucer. He was also a curious observer of the quaint customs of the Dutch settlers who lived in New York at that time. In 1809 he wrote a "History of New York from the End of the Dutch Dynasty" by Diedrick Knickerbocker. This book such a quaint history that it was mistaken for exact history. He engaged in commerce as a silent partner with his brother, but his heart was still true to literature, and the business venture failed. He visited England, Spain and some of the western states, writing books on anything he saw. One edition of his works in 15 vols, reached a sale of 200,000 copies. With the sale of his books came ease of living, and Irving settled in his own "Sleepy Hollow" to end his days. Irving died at Sunnyside. He never married, but spent his last days in the company of beloved friends.

The BRONZE BELL

BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE
AUTHOR OF "THE BRASS BOWL," ETC.
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS
COPYRIGHT BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

"Pardon, huzoor, but is this worth thy while? I am no child; what I know I know. If thou art indeed not Har Dyal Rutton, how is it that thou dost wear upon thy finger the signet of thy house?"—Sallig Singh indicated the emerald which Amber had forgotten—the Token sent thee by the Bell? If thou art not my lord the rightful Maharajah of Khandawar, how is it that thou hast answered the summons of the Bell? Are the servants of the Body fools who have followed thee hither, leaving traces of thee no single instant when thou didst alight the Bengali who bore the Token to thee? Am I blind—I, Sallig Singh, thy childhood's playmate, the grand vizier of thy too-brief rule, to whom thou didst surrender the reins of government of Khandawar? I know thee; thou canst not deceive me. True it is that thou art changed—sandy changed, my lord; and the years have not worn upon thee as they might—I had thought to find thee an older man and, by thy grace, a wiser. But even as I am Sallig Singh, thou art none other than my lord, Har Dyal Rutton."

Sallig Singh put his shoulders against the wall and, leaning so with a triumphant regard upon Amber with a triumph not unshared with contempt, it was plain that he considered his argument final, his case complete, the verdict final. While Amber found no words with which to combat his false impression, and could only stare, open-mouthed and fascinated. But at length he recollected himself and called his wits together.

"That's all very pretty," he admitted fairly, "but it won't hold water. I don't suppose those faithful servants of the Bell who mentioned happened to tell you that Chatterji himself mistook me for Rutton, to begin with, and just found out his mistake in time to recover the Token. Did they?"

The man shook his head wearily. "Nothing to that import hath come to mine ears," he said.

"All right. And of course they didn't tell you that Rutton committed suicide down there on Long Island; just after he had killed the babu?"

Again Sallig Singh replied by making a negative movement of his head.

"Well, all I've got to say is that your infernal 'Body' employs a giddy lot of incompetents to run its errands."

Sallig Singh said nothing, and Amber pondered the situation briefly. He understood now how the babu's companion had fallen into error; how Chatterji, possessing sufficient intelligence to recognize his initial mistake, had, having rectified it, saved his face by saying nothing to his companion of the incident; and how the latter had remained in ignorance of Rutton's death after the slaying of Chatterji, and had pardonably mistaken Amber for the man he had been sent to spy upon. The prologue was plain enough, but how to deal with this, its sequel, was a problem that taxed his ingenuity. A single solution seemed practicable, of the many he debated: to get in touch with Labertouche and leave the rest to him.

He stood for so long in meditation that the Rajput began to show traces of impatience. He moved restlessly, yawned, and at length spoke.

"Is not my lord content? Can he not see, the dice are cast? What profit can he think to win through furtherance of this farce?"

"Well," curiously prompted Amber to ask, "what do you want of me, then?"

"Is there need to ask? Through the Mouthpiece, the Bengali, Dohari Lal Chatterji, whom thou didst slay, the message of the Bell was brought to thee. Thou hast been called! It is for thee to answer."

"Called—?"

"To the Gateway of Swords, huzoor."

"Oh, yes; to be sure. But where in thunderation is it?"

"That my lord doth know."

"You think so? Well, have it your own way. But suppose I decline the invitation?"

Sallig Singh looked bored. "Since thou hast come so far," he said, "thou wilt go farther, huzoor."

"Mourning—by force?"

"Of thine own will. Those whom the Yelge calleth are not led to the Gateway by their noses."

"But," Amber persisted, "suppose they don't go?"

"Then, huzoor, doth the Council of the Hand sit in judgment upon them?"

The significance was savagely obvious, but Amber merely laughed. "And the Hand strikes, I presume?" Sallig Singh nodded. "Bless your heart, I'm not afraid of your 'Hand'! But am I to understand that compulsion is not to be used in order to get me to the Gateway—wherever that is? I mean, I am free to exercise my judgment, whether or not I shall go—free to leave this place and return to my hotel?"

Gravely the Rajput inclined his head. "Even so," he assented. "I caused thee to be brought hither solely to make certain what thou hast out of thine own mouth confirmed—the report that thou hadst become altogether traitor to the Bell. So be it. There remains but the warning that for four days more, and four days only, the Gateway remains open to those summoned. On the fifth it closes."

"And to those who remain in the outer darkness on the fifth day, Sallig Singh—"

"God is merciful," said the Rajput placidly.

"Very well. If that is all, I think I will now leave you, Sallig Singh," said Amber, touching his pistol meaningfully.

"One word more," Sallig Singh interposed, very much alive to Amber's attitude. "I was unforgotten to the trust thou didst once repose in me were I not to warn thee that whither thou goest, the Mind will know; what thou dost, the Eye will see; the words thou shalt utter, the Ear will hear. To all things there is an end, also—even to the patience of the Body, Shabash!"

"Thank you most to death, Sallig Singh. Now will you be good enough to order a ghari to take me back to the Great Eastern?"

"My lord's will is his servant's," Sallig Singh started for the door the least trace too eagerly.

"One moment," said Amber sharply. "Not so fast, my friend." He tapped his palm with the barrel of the pistol to add weight to his peremptory manner. "I think if you will lift your voice and call, some one will answer. I've taken a great fancy to you, if you don't know it, and I don't purpose letting you out of my sight until I'm safely out of this house."

With a sudden air the Rajput yielded. From his expression Amber would have wagered much that there was a bad quarter of an hour in store for those who had neglected to disarm him when the opportunity was theirs.

"As you will," conceded Sallig Singh; and he clapped his hands smartly, crying: "Oho, Moto!"

Almost instantly the iron door swung open and the lamp-bearer appeared, saluting.

"Tell him," ordered Amber, "to bring me a cloak of some sort—not too conspicuous. I've no fancy to kick up a scandal at the hotel by returning with these duds visible. You can charge it up to profit and loss; if it hadn't been for the tender treatment your assassins gave me, I'd be less disreputable."

A faint smile flickered in Sallig Singh's eyes—a look that was not wholly devoid of admiration for the man who had turned the tables on him with such ease. "Indeed," he said, "I was lacking in courtesy did I refuse thee that." And turning to the servant he issued instructions in accordance with Amber's demands, adding gratuitously an order that the way of exit should be kept clear.

As the man bowed and withdrew Amber grinned cheerfully. "It wasn't a bad afterthought, Sallig Singh," he observed; "precautions like that relieve the mind wonderfully sometimes."

But the humor of the situation seemed to be lost upon the Rajput. Without undue delay the servant returned with a light cloak and the announcement that the ghari was in waiting.

His offer to help the American don the garment was graciously declined. "I've a fancy to have my arms free for the present," Amber explained; "I can put it on by myself in the ghari." He took the cloak over his left arm. "I'm ready; lead on!" he said, and with a graceful wave of the pistol bowed Sallig Singh out of the cellar.

Amber civilly insisted that both the servant and his master leave the house before him, but, once outside, he made a wary detour and got between them and the waiting conveyance. Then, "It's kind of you, Sallig Singh," he said; "I'm properly grateful. I'll say this for you; you play the game fairly when anybody calls your attention to the rules. Good night to you—and, I say, be kind enough to shut the door as you go in. I'll just wait until you do."

The Rajput found no answer; conceivably, his charitra was intense. With a curt nod he turned and re-entered the house, Moto following. The door closed and Amber jumped briskly into the ghari.

"Home, James," he told the ghari-wallah, in great conceit with himself. "I mean, the Great Eastern hotel—and Jubilee Road!"

The driver wrapped a whiplash round the corrugated flanks of his horse and the ghari turned the corner with gratifying speed. In half a minute they were in the Clifton road. In 15 they drew up before the hotel.

A haggard drifted listlessly past, a bored and blasé babu in a suit of pink satin, wandering home and interested in nothing save his own bland self and the native cigarette that drooped languidly from his lips. He paused within a foot of Amber, and from somewhere a voice spoke: the Virginian could have taken an oath that the babu's lips did not move—in a clear yet discreet whisper.

"Tomorrow," it said; "Darjeeling." Amber hitched his cloak round him and entered the hotel.

CHAPTER XI.

The Tonga.

"Badshah Junction, Mr. Amber."

"Badshah Junction. We'll be there in 'alf an hour."

Inexorably the voice droned on, repeating the admonition over and over. Muttering, Amber stirred and grumbled in his sleep; stirred and, grumbling awakened to another day. Doggott stood over him, doggedly insisting.

"Not much time to dress, sir; we're due in less than 'alf an hour."

"Even a tonga will be a relief after three days of this, Doggott," he observed, surrendering himself to the ministrations of the servant.

It was the third morning succeeding that on which he had risen from his bed in the Great Eastern hotel in Calcutta, possessed by a wild anxiety to find his way with the least possible delay to Darjeeling and Sophia Farrel—a journey which he was destined never to make. For while he breakfasted a telegram had been brought to him.

"Your train for Benares," he said, "leaves Howrah at 8:20. Imperative." It was signed: "Pink Satin."

He acted upon it without thought of disobedience; he was in the hands of Labertouche, and Labertouche knew best. Between the lines he read that the Englishman considered it unwise to attempt further communication in Calcutta. Something had happened to eliminate the trip to Darjeeling. Labertouche would undoubtedly contrive to meet and enlighten him, either on the way or in Benares itself.

In the long, tiresome, eventless journey that followed his faith was sorely tried; nor was it justified until the train passed some time after midnight at Mugal Sera. There, before Amber and Doggott could alight to change for Benares, their compartment was invaded by an unmistakable loafer, very drunk, tall and burly; with red-rimmed eyes in a pasty, peck-marked face, dirty and rusty with a week-old growth of beard; clothed with sublime contempt for the mode and exalted beyond reason with liquor—a typical loafer of the Indian railways—he flung the door open and himself into Amber's arms, almost knocking the latter down; and resented the accident at the top of his lungs.

On Cleaning the Sink

No place in the home gathers grease as quickly as the kitchen sink. Gold Dust washing powder, however, has the peculiar quality of dissolving and cutting grease and if after each dish-washing a soda is made in the dish pan with warm water and Gold Dust the sink thoroughly rinsed with these sods, the last particle of dirt and grease will be removed. The sink and pipe will never become clogged with grease if Gold Dust and plenty of hot water are used for washing the sink morning and evening.

The Low Cost of Living in Janesville

One friend met another coming from a local eating house and he asked the question, "what did you have this noon?" he answered "A half dollar meal for a quarter." All of which is true, not only of the restaurant in question but of a dozen others who make a specialty of a noon meal at 25c that beats anything in the country. Shoppers who visit Janesville are indeed fortunate in being able to have the privileges afforded. If you wish to be a little more exclusive the leading hotels furnish a dinner at half a dollar that in the larger cities would cost three times the price. This but illustrates the fact that as a trading point Janesville is second to none.

One can go miles and find no such hotel and restaurant service as we enjoy here. If you know of anyone who would be interested in Janesville mail this talk.

DIRECTIONS FOR VOTING ON THE VOTING MACHINE: 1st. Close the curtain. 2d. Pull the Yellow Lever having on it the names of your political party over to the right until the Ball rings. (This will turn down the Pointers over the names of the candidates in your party.) 3d. If you wish to vote a Straight Party Ticket, leave the Pointers as they are (Down, in their voting position). But if you wish to "split," or "scratch," your ticket, turn up the Pointer from over the name of the candidate in your own party that you wish to cut out, and then turn Down the Pointer over the name of the candidate you wish to vote for for that office, and leave it there. 4th. Vote for the Judges in columns No. 15 and 16 and higher, by turning down a Pointer over each name you wish to vote for, and leaving it there. (As these are non-partisan officers, they must each be voted for individually, as their Pointers are not turned down by the pulling of the Party Levers.) 5th. Open the Curtain.

NOTE:—Unless you are sure that you know just how to operate the machine, it would be well for you to practice on some machine before election day.

HOW TO VOTE ON QUESTIONS

To vote Yes, turn the Question Pointer to the word Yes, and leave it there. To vote No, turn the Question Pointer to the word No, and leave it there.

THE ABOVE CUT SHOWS:

That the voter has voted Party Lever "C" and then—
Split his vote for Treasurer, on Column 5.
That he has voted for Assessors, voting for three on Column 9 (for which office he is permitted to vote for any three candidates on either of the Columns, 8, 9, and 10).
That he has voted "Yes" on Questions 1 and 2.
That he has not voted on Questions 3 and 5.
That he has voted "No" on Question 4.
If the voter desires, he may make any further changes while the Curtain remains closed, as the vote is not registered until the Curtain is opened.

The Pointers must be left down over the names to be voted for. If the voter turns them back the vote will not be counted, as the opening of the Curtain turns back the Pointers and counts the vote.

The said election will be held at the regular polling places in each ward and the polls will be open from six o'clock in the morning until seven o'clock in the evening. The polling places are located as follows:

FIRST WARD—In the Street Commissioner's room in basement in the north-east corner of the City Hall Building.

SECOND WARD—Building owned by the City on North Main street, at the foot of Prospect Avenue.

THIRD WARD—Building owned by city on Racine Street east of and near South Main Street.

FOURTH WARD—At E. J. Howland's Blacksmith Shop at the foot of Dodge Street near Doty's Mill.

Wine for French Soldiers.
In the French army nearly three times as much is spent on wine as on bread, vegetables and preserved food put together. The sum total for these provisions amounts to only £1,350,000, whereas the amount spent on wine last year was £3,670,000.

Saxon State Dinners.
At Saxon dinners slices of bread were the substitutes for plates, and these generally went into the plum basket afterward. Grapes were treated to a silver platter placed beneath the bread, which last in course of time became discarded as people came to recognize the superior advantages of metal and pewter.
